CHINA RIVER FLOOD TOLL 150,000 LIVES

Many Chinese Flee; Fate of Japanese Troops Near the Yellow Unknown

Invaders Fall Back to Kaifeng

SHANGHAI (AP)—Japanese military authorities said Tuesday night they believed 150,000 Chinese civilians had been drowned by flood waters of the Yellow River now spreading over a wide area in northern Honan province. Flood conditions were said to be the worst in the Chungmow area, about 25 miles east of Chengchow, the railway junction which had seen the Yellow River's angry overflow.

Fate of a large number of Japanese troops scattered through the area was not known. It was believed, however, thousands might be trapped and drowned throughout the area.

Foreign relief workers believed ravages of floods and war in Honan, Anhwei and Kiangsu provinces would bring a relief problem almost as large as that created by the Great War.

An estimated 30,000,000 refugees were fleeing to the west to escape the invading Japanese armies. Millions more were imperilled by Yellow waters roaring through the centre of China and rapidly spreading out.

The flood was fed by almost continuous rains.

Japanese officers said most of the victims were Chinese farmers and their families.

TRIPLE BREAK

Reports from the war zone along the Lunghai Railway said dikes of the Yellow River, known for generations as "China's Sorrow," had been broken badly at three main points.

Chungmow city itself was under three feet of water and scores of villages were inundated.

The Japanese asserted their own army engineers were working day and night to fill breaks in the dikes, assisted by hundreds of Chinese farmers, but the work was hampered by Chinese troops firing on repair gangs.

JAPANESE WITHDRAW

Chinese reports from the front said the Japanese had been forced to withdraw as far as Kaifeng, 43 miles east of Chengchow on the Lunghai railway.

These reports said the boiling Yellow water was 10 feet deep north of Chungmow, that numerous villages were inundated and the flood was two and three feet deep at several points where it crossed the Lunghai railway.

Forest Revenue Climbs Again

Last Year's Collection in B.C. Shows Gain

The British Columbia Government collected $3,466,271 in forest revenues last year, the highest since the boom years of 1928 and 1929, according to the annual report of the forest branch made public today by Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands. It was an increase of $41,000 over the previous year.

Approximately one-quarter of this amount was spent on forest protection, lumber trade extension and the general forest service. Total expenditures in the fiscal year, which does not correspond to the calendar year, are given as $753,475.

The timber royalty and tax, main item of revenue, was down slightly from the previous year, from $1,912,268 to $1,881,271. Timber license rentals were also down, from $610,421 to $559,371.

The main factor in the revenue increase was timber sale stumpage which amounted to $253,252, against $398,868 the previous year.

As a whole collections were $388,000 above the average for the last 10 years.

In his report, E. C. Manning, chief forester, says that since 1912 the surplus forest income over and above the cost of administration has been $53,000,000.

Much Corn To Be Exported By U.S.

CHICAGO (AP)—Continued export demand for United States corn for at least a year appeared virtually certain today in view of an announcement that the Argentine crop would approximate one-half of normal production.

Grain men professed to see in the announcement a likelihood that United States farmers would be called on to meet much of the European demand which normally is filled by Argentina. On the basis of present Argentine crop estimates, the potential market for American farmers was figured at upward of 175,000,000 bushels. This would be more than the United States has ever exported to Europe.

As Francoists Sweep Beyond Captured Castellon, Loyalists Dig In

HENDAYE (AP)—The Spanish insurgents' sweeping drive down the Mediterranean coast today pushed government defences five miles south of captured Castellon de la Plana to the banks of the Mijares River.

Government troops dug in on the south bank of the river in a desperate effort to hold up the insurgents' advance toward Valencia, 40 miles south of Castellon, until new fortifications could be completed in a mountain chain barring the way to the former capital.

TO FREE PRISONERS

PARIS (AP)—General Franco was reported today to have accepted the proposal of United States Ambassador Claude Bowers for the Spanish insurgents to free 18 government pilots and 10 United States members of the government's International Brigade in exchange for 18 captured government soldiers.

Hungerford Calls For Board to Force Rail Co-operation

C.N.R. Head, Opposed to C.P.R. Unification, Suggests Three-man Tribunal

OTTAWA (CP)—Compulsory co-operation, enforced by an arbitral tribunal, was proposed as a remedy for Canada's railway ills by President S. J. Hungerford of the Canadian National Railways today. He advanced the suggestion as he presented to the Senate railways committee his case against unification proposals of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Co-operation would be developed under the Hungerford plan through a three-man board, two members nominees of the railways and the chairman representing the "public interest." The board would endeavor to obtain agreement of the railways on co-operative projects "feasible, productive of economy and in the public interest."

If either railway refused to agree, compulsion would be invoked through the arbitral tribunal, which could be set up under the 1933 statute enabling co-operation.

Economies of $75,000,000 yearly, estimated in the C.P.R. plan, are largely unrealizable, President Hungerford declared in a 5,000-word brief attacking the unified management proposals Sir Edward Beatty, C.P.R. president, laid before the committee May 24. Those realizable could be obtained through co-operation without risking "the unknown perils of unification."

It was feasible to accomplish under co-operation everything in the public interest contained in the unification plan.

Abandonment of 5,000 miles of lines, proposed in the Beatty brief, would set the transportation clock of Canada back 30 years.

"The public interest is too much involved," he added.

SECRET PROPOSALS

He held that much of the economy "based on other and undisclosed drastic changes" involved in the C.P.R. plan "if given a similar touch of reality by a disclosure of exactly what was involved."

Victoria Boy Is Killed In East

Ian Herbert Rayment Victim of Train Accident at Brockville, Ont.

Ian Herbert Rayment, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur P. Rayment, 1626 Fell Street, was killed early this morning when he fell under a Canadian National train near the railway yards at Brockville, Ont., according to a Canadian Press dispatch received here.

Rayment was instantly killed and was identified by a passport which he carried.

Rayment had been in the east for some time and recently left a position in Montreal, according to word received by his mother. He was believed to have been heading west at the time of the accident.

Born in Harrow, England, on September 1, 1916, Rayment came to Canada with his parents in the years which followed the war. He is survived by his parents and a twin sister at home. His brother, Arthur, was killed under similar circumstances 14 years ago while studying for his B.Sc. degree in Alberta.

An inquest will be held by the Brockville police.

Clara Bow Has Second Child

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Clara Bow, former "It" girl of the screen and wife of cowboy actor, Rex Bell, became the mother of a six-pound, eleven-ounce son at the Santa Monica Hospital today. The child was born through a Caesarian operation.

Dr. Harry Blogett, who performed the surgery, said the mother and child were doing nicely.

It is the family's second child. The first, Rex Larbow Bell, is three and a half years old.

BRITAIN PLANS NO RETALIATION FOR SHIP RAIDS

Chamberlain Tells Commons System of Safety Zones in Spain Considered

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons today Great Britain planned no retaliatory action because of the bombings of British shipping in the Mediterranean, but was trying to work out a system of safety zones to end the attacks.

In his eagerly-awaited statement at the first sitting following Parliament's Whit Sunday recess, Mr. Chamberlain said two proposals had been made which "might go some way toward cessation of these attacks."

The first, provided for the establishment of safety zones in certain harbors, a plan which "although it presents considerable difficulty, is being actively investigated," the Prime Minister said.

REBELS' PROPOSAL

The second plan, he continued, was proposed last Saturday by the Spanish insurgent government, namely, that "a part of Spanish government territory should be selected outside the zone of military operations for the use of British ships, which could enter or leave it unhindered."

Mr. Chamberlain spoke to a tense house, for during the four

PENITENTIARY BOARD OF THREE MEN IS URGED

Immediate Retirement of Major-Gen. D. M. Ormond as Superintendent Recommended in Report of Investigating Commission Laid Before Parliament Today, Which Says He Failed to Understand Basic Principles of Penal Administration; Transfer of Inspector J. D. Dawson Out of Service, Suggested

OTTAWA (CP)—Sweeping changes in administration of Canada's penal system are recommended in the report of the Archambault commission tabled in the House of Commons this afternoon by Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice.

The major change would be the appointment of a three-man prison commission to operate the federal penitentiaries and act as a central parole board.

Immediate retirement of Major-General D. M. Ormond, superintendent of penitentiaries, is recommended, and transfer of the penitentiary service of Inspector J. D. Dawson.

A conference between the Dominion and provinces leading toward centralization of prison administration also is suggested. The conference would also seek to remove the divided authority now existing in duplication of penal establishments, disunity in regulations, treatment and systems.

The royal commission was headed by Mr. Justice Joseph Archambault of Montreal and had as members R. W. Craig, K.C., of Winnipeg, and J. C. McRuer, K.C., of Toronto. Altogether, it visited 113 institutions in nine countries, heard evidence from 1,840 inmates and 200 officers. Its report, running 400 pages, was accompanied by an official summary.

Relating to Superintendent of Penitentiaries Ormond, the official summary stated:

"The commission reports against the present superintendent, Major-General D. M. Ormond, and recommends his immediate retirement from the service. The findings of the commission with respect to this officer are that he had failed to grasp the fundamental principles of penal administration, that he had intensified a militaristic control of the penitentiary service, that he has unreasonably curtailed the authority of the wardens and minimized the usefulness of the inspectors and that he has failed to confer with the wardens or inspectors or to obtain information by adequate personal investigation, but that he has devoted his time to small matters of administrative detail, and that, by his voluminous correspondence and multitude of circular letters, he has thrown the service into confusion."

"Regulations drafted by him, when he was inexperienced and new to the service, were composed without consulting the wardens, suggestions being rebuffed, and the regulations were arbitrarily put into effect. He has summarily dismissed a large number of officers from the service without specific cause or opportunity for hearing."

"He has interpreted the regulations with undue severity, and, in the punishment of prisoners, he has violated their provisions. He has failed adequately to investigate the misuse of firearms and the ill-treatment of prisoners. He has issued misleading reports to the public and for presentation to Parliament by the minister."

"His arbitrary manner has antagonized the personnel of the service and was a major contributing cause of the riots and disturbances that have taken place since his appointment."

His evidence before the commission was unsatisfactory, and he has completely lost the confidence of the staff in all the penitentiaries."

There are three inspectors in the present penitentiary set-up.

UNSATISFACTORY

The official summary stated: "In the cases of Inspector Dawson and Inspector Craig (now

Evidence which Dr. Campbell asserted substantiated in part at least, the Einstein theory of relativity, was obtained on the Australian expedition.

Dr. Campbell came to Victoria in June, 1918, for the semi-official opening of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, Little Saanich Mountain. He was personally known to most of the members of the observatory staff. The news of his death this morning came as a great shock to Victoria's astronomers.

No Vancouver Refunding Plan

VANCOUVER (CP)—A suggestion by Alderman John Bennett that Vancouver adopt a refunding scheme similar to that used by Victoria and upheld recently by the British Columbia Court of Appeal has met with little support from the city council.

"Vancouver can have Victoria's scheme any time it wants to," Mayor G. C. Miller said at yesterday's city council meeting, at which Alderman Bennett made the proposal. "But Victoria is paying through the nose for it and Vancouver does not need it."

"We have no refunding worries," the mayor said, adding that Victoria debentures were due and the city would have defaulted if it had not been able to postpone payment until 1966.

Alderman Bennett cited Prince Rupert, Merritt, Fernie and Calgary as examples of successful refunding and urged appointment of a committee to study the question.

The mayor said he would consider the matter further.

contemplated would likewise prove unsound and unrealistic." Mr. Hungerford told the committee the unification plan "has neither the merits of public nor private ownership and, in my opinion, is impractical and would conceivably lead to serious involvement of the state."

"Railway savings purchased at the expense of the development of Canada and of wide disturbance in the already disturbed labor and material markets of the country would be too dearly obtained," he said. "The country, instead of being better off, would be worse off."

"Yet it is only to the extent that a program of drastic reduction in expenses could be achieved that the country would be warranted in inviting the perils of monopoly and of the great difficulties which I foresee in the type of management of the joint enterprise which is now proposed."

In unification there was the grave danger of "slackening in the morale of the organization, of a lessening of initiative and enthusiasm, a loss of sympathetic contact between the management and the men and between the management and the public."

SAYS RISKS GREAT

The risks were so great they could be offset only by substantial economies he could not envisage.

In addition there were financial risks. The C.P.R. plan, while it contemplated technical preservation of the respective ownerships of the properties, "really consisted of a permanent fusion of the physical properties and of the organizations into an indivisible unit." State and private ownership were to go into a partnership on "some terms as yet undisclosed."

A partnership of such diverse interests was liable to produce a number of unforeseen problems never contemplated in the original contract. The joint board of directors would quickly get into difficulties and, as the properties could not be unscrambled, the state could only break the stalemate by acquiring the Canadian Pacific property, "or making some concession in the form of guarantees of otherwise."

Unification had been suggested to the Ruff Royal Commission in 1932 and rejected. "It is my considered judgment that these conclusions are as sound today as they were in 1932," he said.

VOICES SURPRISE

"The chairman and president of the C.P.R. in his evidence before this committee has told you of his surprise at the findings of the Royal Commission," said Mr. Hungerford. "I, on my part, was surprised at the subsequent institution by the Canadian Pacific of a policy of pressing publicly for unification. I cannot but feel that the atmosphere created by this policy has made co-operation between the properties less effective than it otherwise might have been. The management of the Canadian National Railways has not carried on a public controversy as to the merits or otherwise of unification and the reiteration of one side of the case may have created an impression that there is no reasonable and logical answer to it, which is not correct."

SERVICE OF YEARS

Reduced to simple terms, said Mr. Hungerford, the case submitted by the Canadian Pacific to the committee was that an unwise venture of the state into the railway field had produced the greatest danger to the future of the nation by the creation of the Canadian National, and that this danger could be removed only by unification.

NO DANGER TO CANADA

He could not agree that creation of the C.N.R. was a danger to Canada. Those who held that view overlooked the great measure of public service performed by the system in furnishing transportation to communities to which, "as parts of this Dominion, they are entitled to which it is impossible to provide on a paying basis."

Looking to the future, he said the Canadian National has far greater potentialities than the C.P.R. because it was better located in relation to the natural resources of the north. If development took place without needless duplication of lines, the broad outlook for the development of traffic on the C.N.R. was "decidedly encouraging."

The wisdom of the formation of the C.N.R. could not be judged solely on its financial results. There was a sounder justification for the operation of the property than railway profits. That justification was found in public service.

Mr. Hungerford said there was a tendency to consider the income deficits of the Canadian National as deficits arising out of operation, but this was not so. The property had a very great earning capacity under normal traffic conditions.

C.N.R. REVENUE

For the 15-year period 1923-1937 inclusive its operating revenues exceeded its operating expenses by $361,346,000, or an average of $24,090,000 a year. In the five most prosperous years, 1925-1929 inclusive, the property earned $225,287,000 over its operating expenses. The deficits arose not from operations but from the heavy burden of interest charges.

TO END DUPLICATIONS

Within the reservation that economies purchased at the expense of the public are not true economies in the public interest, there was considerable opportunity for effecting savings by enforced co-operation. This applied not only to elimination of duplicate facilities and elimination of wasteful effort, but also to the prevention of duplications in the future.

During the past five years co-operation had been attempted in an unfavorable atmosphere. It might be that if the Senate inquiry could dispose finally of unification as an alternative to co-operation greater progress might be achieved in co-operative economies.

CONCRETE SUGGESTIONS

But he urged the committee from the experience gained in the past five years that serious consideration be given "to the setting up, for a period of years, of a public body to deal with co-operation."

He then suggested the three-man board, saying such a body need not be permanent, but might be appointed for five years.

Mr. Hungerford continued: "It should be charged with the exploration of the whole field of possible co-operative measures and the development of specific co-operative projects," he said. "It should be its duty to endeavor to secure agreement of the two railways to all such proposals as are feasible, productive of recovery and in the public interest."

"In cases where public interest and economy indicate a measure should be made effective, but in regard to which either railway company refuses to agree, compulsion should be invoked through the medium of the arbitral tribunal provided for in the present act. I would suggest, however, that instead of leaving this to the discretion of the railway companies, it should follow automatically after a reasonable stated time had elapsed from the date of the publication of the report."

IN TWO GROUPS

Discussing the C.P.R. estimate of $75,000,000 yearly saving through co-operation, Mr. Hungerford said: "The asserted savings divide, upon examination, into two broad classifications: (1) Those savings based upon assumption that the quantity of transportation service is greater and the quality of transportation service is higher than is needed, to which I have joined the asserted savings from a drastic program of abandonment of lines, the closing of stations, shops and other repair points and the consolidation of ancillary services. This group totals approximately $55,000,000 a year."

"(2) Those savings which are based on the assumption that Canadian Pacific unit costs can be applied with propriety to Canadian National operations without due regard to differences in geographical distribution of lines and the relative traffic, maintenance and operating problems. This group totals approximately $20,000,000 a year."

The assumptions which underlie assertions of such savings are, I believe, unsound.

Mr. Hungerford said that "the continuing insistence by the Canadian Pacific in evidence before this committee that 5,000 miles of line can be abandoned, (if not the lines in their program, then some other lines) may be taken as a faint warning of the attitude towards public service to be expected under unification."

POSSIBLE FIELDS

Later, after saying most of the economies realizable under unification could be obtained through co-operation, Mr. Hungerford turned to what could be done under co-operation.

"It is entirely feasible under co-operation to arrange for the abandonment of one or two closely paralleling lines of railway where public interest is not adversely affected," he said. "It is feasible to arrange for the handling of one company's traffic over another company's line. It is feasible to eliminate duplicate competitive passenger train service to the extent justifiable in the public interest. It is feasible to deal co-operatively with ancillary services. Types of all these economies have been explored and have been demonstrated as entirely practicable and workable."

Deliberate destruction of the dikes, which in many places confine the river to a course above the level of the surrounding country, by Japanese artillery fire and airplane bombing, and by the Chinese themselves to impede the invaders, was said by these experts to be largely responsible for the present overflow.

WORST TO COME

Engineers and relief workers familiar with the destruction that can be wrought by the Yellow River, said the present upsurge, was only preliminary to the heavy flow that normally is not at its height until mid-July. Waters of the Hwai River, farther south, and in the Grand Canal, also were said to be rising rapidly.

Military experts believed the flood threat would force the Japanese to shift their strategy from an attack on Chengchow and a drive southward down the Peiping-Hankow railway to take Hankow.

Mr. Chamberlain reported that since April 11, 22 British ships had been attacked.

DELIBERATE ATTACKS

"Eleven of these ships have been sunk or seriously damaged and in several cases the attack appears to have been deliberate," the Prime Minister said.

"His Majesty's government have considered retaliatory action of various kinds . . . but they are not prepared to embark on such measures, which, apart from their inherent disadvantages, cannot be relied upon to achieve their object."

Rt. Hon. Clement Attlee, Leader of the Opposition, announced at conclusion of the Prime Minister's statement that "in view of the grave issues involved, Labor would press for an early debate on the subject."

Mr. Chamberlain said that unless Britain were "prepared to take an active part in hostilities," effective protection could not be guaranteed to British ships trading with ports in the war zone while in territorial Spanish waters.

He said the government felt it could not recommend a course "which might well result in a spread of the conflict far beyond its present limits."

WARNING TO SHIPS

He asserted the government "must therefore repeat the warning already given to British shipping, that while they (the government) will continue to afford protection as hitherto to ships on the high seas, ships entering ports which are liable at any time to be the object of military observations and attacks must do so at their own risk."

NEW CANADA PRISON SYSTEM RECOMMENDED

warden of the Collins Bay Penitentiary, Kingston, Ont.), inspections made in particular instances, namely, the shooting into the cell of a prisoner at the Kingston Penitentiary and coal shortages at that institution, were highly unsatisfactory, and their findings were unjustified, erroneous and misleading.

"The commission finds that Inspector Dawson failed to perform his duties in a creditable manner in making important inquiries and that he has little knowledge of penitentiary management, and recommends that he should be transferred out of the penitentiary service."

COMMISSION PLAN

On the commission's major recommendation of a prison commission, the summary read:

"The commission recommends that the positions of superintendent and inspectors be abolished and that a prison commission of three members, removable only for cause, should immediately be established to administer the prison services of Canada, that such commission should have power to appoint staff and act as a central parole board, and that it should be responsible directly to the Minister of Justice and Parliament."

"The success of the prison commission of England has impressed the commission with the advisability of establishing a similar set-up in Canada. It is recommended that an outstanding English authority be invited to visit Canada to advise the Canadian prison commission in its reorganization of the Canadian penal system."

"The commission also recommends that the entire penal system of Canada be centralized under the federal government, and that the provinces retain only sufficient institutions to accommodate those convicted under provincial statutes, or for short sentences, or on remand."

DIFFICULTIES IN U.S.

"Canada and the United States are the only countries that do not possess a centralized penal system, and the difficulties encountered in the United States because of this lack of centralization are fully recognized, but, because of constitutional reasons, cannot be overcome."

"There is no constitutional basis for the present division of jurisdiction by two-year sentences in Canada, and the difficulties of centralization, largely geographical, could be overcome by federal-provincial co-operation. An immediate conference between the Dominion and provincial governments is recommended with a view to accomplishing this centralization."

"It is impossible to reduce crime appreciably or satisfactorily to reorganize the penal system of Canada under divided jurisdiction with the consequent lack of proper classification and segregation, lack of uniformity of treatment and without continuity of policy."

MORALE AFFECTED

The summary went on: "There are too many regulations, too many trivial offences punishable in a drastic manner, and this produces a bad effect on the morale of prisoners and interferes with possibility of reform."

"Segregation of agitators with out trial should only be used in exceptional cases and in strict compliance with the rules."

"Corporal punishment, which has been abolished in the United States and very seldom used in England, is too frequently awarded, and for too many offences. Straps used in Canadian penitentiaries are condemned because of the holes punched in them."

"The method of dealing with prison offences is unsatisfactory. The evidence of officers is always accepted and the warnings do not precede charges. Procedure outlined for the conduct of prison courts is not being followed."

"The commission recommends that prison offences should be tried before a prison court composed of three officers, that the rules governing prison offences should be simplified, and that there should be a right of appeal."

The report recommends that "corporal punishment should be abolished except for mutiny, incitement of mutiny, and assaulting officers or other prisoners."

PRISON RIOTS

"Injustices," the summary continued, "should be corrected before prisoners are driven to rioting. If privileges are sought by rioting they should not be granted. Present procedure in granting privileges because of riots is destructive to discipline and encouragement to disorders."

At the trial of prisoners who participated in the riots at the Kingston Penitentiary in October, 1932, it was disclosed that there had been a grave misuse of firearms by officers.

"The commission finds that the investigation conducted by the superintendent in this regard was entirely inadequate and that there was brutal and inhuman treatment of prisoners which called for searching inquiry and the fixing of responsibility, that reports made by the inspectors were inadequate and misleading, and that the memorandum to the minister, based on these reports, was misleading, and was prepared in an attempt to justify what had taken place."

The commission found employment was "sadly deficient in Canadian penitentiaries. Little opportunity exists for learning a useful trade."

The commission recommends that prison pay should be based on application as well as production.

Turning to women prisoners, it said: "Few women are placed in federal penitentiaries and all of these are confined in a central prison at Kingston. There is no need for this expensive central institution and the women could better be cared for in reformatories nearer their homes. Girls should never be committed to institutions except in extreme cases. Instead, full use should be made of probation and the assistance provided by social agencies."

"The construction of the women's prison was highly unsatisfactory and demonstrated the usual incompetence."

PUNISHMENT

The summary said: "The commission recommends a standard instrument, not more severe than that used in penitentiaries, for all whippings ordered by the court, and that a central place of execution should be provided in each province."

The commission recommended many changes relating to juvenile offenders and delinquents. One, was that juvenile courts should be in the nature of a social clinic and the presiding officer should not be called "judge."

Report On City Manager Plan

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. E. A. Cleveland, commissioner of the Greater Vancouver Water District, told the city council in a 60-page report today that the city manager system of government had been successful in Cincinnati and Toledo, and to a lesser extent in Kansas City.

Dr. Cleveland was authorized by the council to study the manager form of civic government during the eastern business trip. He based his report on visits to three cities using the manager plan.

The Cleveland report made no recommendations concerning advisability of introducing the system in Vancouver.

He said that despite favorable reaction to the manager plan in the three cities he visited, it was "evident" the system was not the only one by which honest and efficient administration could be achieved.

Dr. Cleveland said he did not think it was necessary to appoint a manager here in order to obtain good government. He said that in his opinion the form of civic government was not as important as the type of men comprising that government.

BELLINGHAM, Wash. (AP)—Disagreement over employment of a head sawyer closed the Bloedel-Donovan cargo mill here today with 450 men joining in the walk-out. The crew quit when the men learned the head sawyer had not paid his dues in the Committee for Industrial Organization Union, the International Woodworkers of America.

Housing Act Details Debated

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition to operations of the new Dominion Housing Act is expected by Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Finance, but, despite this, he believes the public generally will co-operate in making the act a success. He told the House of Commons yesterday afternoon as the measure was studied in committee of the whole.

The bill, designed to increase the amount of money available for loans on privately built houses, to encourage housing loans in small communities and on low-cost houses and to enable municipalities and corporations to borrow up to $30,000,000 from the government for low-cost, low-rental housing schemes, received second reading without debate.

Church Scored By Hepburn

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP)—Premier Mitchell Hepburn described certain United Church of Canada ministers as "sanctimonious psalm-singing preachers" and "parlor socialists" in a luncheon address to the Ontario College of Pharmacy Alumni Association here Monday.

Mr. Hepburn also said "talking, yawning legislators at Ottawa" failed to give constructive leadership.

The Premier protested action of United Church ministers who objected to his treatment of Lakeview relief strikers.

(Forty-eight relief recipients from Lakeview, eight miles east of here, paraded to the Ontario Legislative Buildings, protesting relief schedule reductions, and Premier Hepburn, ordered the arrest of eight on charges arising from recent relief demonstrations.)

"I view with alarm the attitude of those who feel society owes them a living," Mr. Hepburn said, "but with greater alarm the attitude of those who would not support the government in trying to remove that belief."

SAYS CHURCH SLIPPING
"In this connection I might say that I belong to the United Church myself, but let me say here the United Church is slipping today. It has become a lot of parlor socialists who won't grasp with realities."

Mr. Hepburn said it was the problem of his government to get "people out of the rut of living on relief."

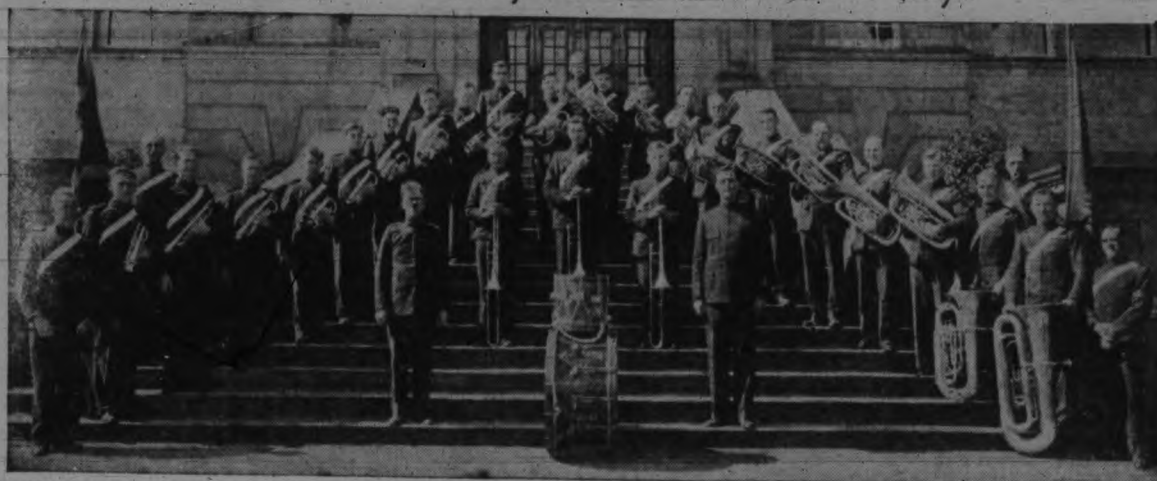

Mr. Hepburn attacked the federal government, terming the recent housing scheme advanced by Hon. Charles Dunning, Finance Minister, "half-baked."

"Is it any wonder we have Aberhart?" he asked. "Some of Aberhart's proposals are as foolish as those coming out of Ottawa, but at least he is trying to do something."

Fine Salvation Army Silver Band to Visit City

The New Westminster Salvation Army Band will be in the city on June 18 and 19. This band comprises 30 players, and is considered one of the finest on the western coast. The band will play Saturday evening in the Broad Street Citadel at 8.45, when a special hour of sacred music will be rendered. Bandmaster Frank Delamont is in charge of the band, being a brother of Arthur Delamont, leader of the Kitsilano Boys' Band. Solos, duets, quartettes and full band numbers will give variety to these programs. Some of the latest productions of the army in which are featured "Atonement," "Brooklyn Citadel," "Deep Harmony," as well as old favorite hymn tunes, will be rendered. Captain J. Nelson and Envoy Jack Green, known as "Salvation Jack" on the Canadian Pacific Railway lines, from whence he has just retired, will act as chairmen.

U.S. SPENDING OVER 7 BILLION

WASHINGTON—Government spending in the present fiscal year crossed the $7,000,000,000 mark on June 3, the Treasury disclosed today.

Expenditures since July 1, 1937, amounted to $7,004,573,209, compared to $6,885,520,010 last year.

The budget estimated that spending, exclusive of debt retirement, for the fiscal year would aggregate $7,408,642,600.

With less than a month remaining of the current fiscal year, the gross deficit stood at $1,498,917,023, compared with the budget estimate for the entire year of $1,294,345,300.

A breakdown of the spending showed:
For ordinary governmental purposes, $1,103,074,963.

Recovery and relief, $1,972,350,663.

Revolving funds, including Commodity Credit Corporation and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, $264,715,639. Transfers to trust accounts, such as old age reserve and railroad retirement, $805,857,587. Debt retirement, $58,574,350.

Plans Made By Alberta Liberals

Senate Advances Transport Bill

OTTAWA (CP)—The Senate last night gave second reading to the government's bill to establish a board of transport commissioners and give it general authority over carrying of freight by rail, water and air in Canada. The agreed charges provision in the bill was opposed by Senator John T. Haig, Conservative, Winnipeg, and Senator William Duff, Liberal, Lunenburg, N.S.

A similar bill, which originated in the Senate, was defeated there last session.

The new measure, passed by the Commons, now goes to the Senate committee on railways, telegraphs and harbors. There was no recorded division on second reading.

The agreed charges clause would enable railways to make special rates to shippers giving them contracts to handle all their goods.

"If it is any good it will increase the cost of shipping grain to the markets of the world and increase the transportation costs of goods coming back to the western farmers," said Senator Haig.

NO CHANGE SEEN

Last year public opinion was against any measure to extend the authority of the Board of Railway Commissioners, said Senator Duff, and there was no reason to suppose it had changed. He doubted Senator Raoul Dandurand would support the bill were he not Liberal leader.

Sensor Dandurand said most of the clauses in the 1937 bill to which Senator Duff objected were out of the present one.

The bill gave a general exemption from its provisions to Nova Scotia shipping, said Senator Duff. The same exemption did not apply to British Columbia and he opposed discriminatory legislation, no matter whom it favored. He predicted if the bill became law much lumber now exported from British Columbia ports would move out of Seattle.

Narcotic Charges Against Japanese

GENEVA (CP)—Representatives of six nations yesterday made successive attacks on Japan's narcotics policy at a meeting of the League of Nations advisory committee on narcotics. The attacks were voiced by delegates representing China, Canada, Great Britain, Egypt, India and the United States.

Stuart J. Fuller, for the United States, said the situation in parts of China under Japanese control "is worse" than ever and gives cause for apprehension on the part of the entire world.

He charged narcotics were being exported to the United States from the Japanese-controlled region in North China. Other delegates supported his protest against lack of Japanese control of the narcotics traffic.

A Chinese spokesman accused Japan of turning Manchukuo into a "vast arsenal of narcotics."

The Japanese delegate threatened his country would quit all league technical organizations if the opium committee "does not examine narcotics traffic in the Far East with impartiality." (Japan resigned from the League of Nations in 1933, but has continued participation in League technical organizations).

Party Council Suggests J. A. MacKinnon Join Federal Cabinet

EDMONTON (CP)—The general council of the Alberta Liberal Association today launched a program to foster Liberal principles and policies and to nominate and promote the election of Liberal candidates.

With more than 200 delegates from all parts of the province attending the council session, decision was made last night to reaffirm section two of the constitution, which declared the party's objectives.

A request was made that a cabinet seat be found for Alberta's lone Liberal member in the House of Commons, James A. MacKinnon, Edmonton West, and that lower railway freight rates be set for Alberta's crude oil.

The new oil plank in the party's platform seeks a railway freight rate to the British Columbia coast equal to that set for export wheat and a statutory rate for east-bound oil. A rider asking crude oil be listed as a "class and kind produced in Alberta" was added. By such listing a measure of protection could be given Alberta oil in the Canadian market.

WARM WORDS IN THE SENATE

OTTAWA (CP)—A violent hurricane lashed the Senate last night, blowing, appropriately enough, around ships and shipping. Its centre was Hon. William Duff, Liberal, Lunenburg, N.S., and its cause some remarks he had made last Wednesday night about Hon. C. D. Howe, Transport Minister.

Before it subsided the chamber was told the minister had on a past occasion called the senator "a damned big windbag."

"Instead of knocking him down as I should have," said Mr. Duff, "I just walked away."

He had gone to the minister some time ago "about a ship" and 24 hours later the minister had sold it to some one else and put it in the hands of a salvage company.

NOT TO BE TRUSTED

"That is the last dealing I had with him, and the last I am going to have with him," Senator Duff said, "because he is not a man to be trusted."

Sensor Dandurand declared Senator Duff now was "giving the real cause for separation with the Minister of Transport."

The present "animus" between the senator and the minister arose out of transactions by which the government ice-breaker Mikula was sold more than a year ago, according to Mr. Howe's statement, read by the government leader.

At one of several interviews between them, said the statement, "hot words were exchanged and little was left unsaid by either of us. Since that time we have not spoken to each other."

Blackshirts Told To Be Ready to Fight

Cesena, Italy (CP-Havas)—Premier Mussolini, addressing four battalions of blackshirt militia, at a ceremony here Monday, declared he would "some day remind you" of the shouted pledge to do and die for Italy if war broke out.

Among the assembled were more than 1,000 veterans of the Spanish and Ethiopian wars.

HOUSING PLAN IS ATTACKED

TORONTO (CP)—The artificially high cost of construction and the crushing burden of land taxation are the main reasons for the high cost of housing and the failure of the building trades to enjoy a revival, says the Ontario Property Owners' Association.

Robert Forsyth, K.C., Toronto, president of the association, has given the group's views in a letter to Hon. Charles Dunning, Minister of Finance, protesting housing financing proposals announced recently by the minister.

Mr. Dunning's proposal, advanced June 8, was for a new housing act for loans up to 90 per cent of the lending value of the new house, with the Dominion government absorbing 25 per cent of that value and the lending institution 75 per cent.

"Canada is not able to enjoy the luxury of providing houses at less than cost any more than it can provide railways at less than cost," said Mr. Forsyth in his letter. "There is no shortage of houses at cost. There is and always had been a shortage of things at less than cost."

Mr. Forsyth said that "provision of houses at less than cost can only make private enterprise more reluctant to undertake building."

Inquest Today On R.M.C. Death

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—After brooding over the recent death of a cadet after a friendly scuffle, Cadet H. G. Campbell of Port Arthur, Ont., was found dying in his dormitory at the Royal Military College yesterday from what authorities said was a self-inflicted gunshot wound. He died in hospital a few hours later. An inquest was started this afternoon.

Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of National Defence, cut short his address at the presentation of prizes at graduation exercises in Sir Arthur Currie Hall. The cadet company had just come off parade to enter the hall when the discovery was made.

College authorities said there had been concern over Campbell's health since the death of Cadet R. D. Smith of Toronto, April 30, after a wrestling match in which Campbell participated. The inquest on Smith's death revealed Campbell had struck him an accidental, glancing blow beneath the ear. A coroner's jury absolved Campbell of blame.

College officials said they had hoped Campbell would rally from his mood of depression and pull himself together. He had failed in his year's work, it was stated.

Plane Purchase Move Criticized

BIRMINGHAM, Eng. (CP)—Baron Austin, motor manufacturer, objects to purchase by the Air Ministry of 400 military aircraft in the United States.

Addressing a luncheon of the National Union of Manufacturers yesterday, Lord Austin, chairman of the Austin Motor Company Limited, said: "I see no reason why we must buy planes from America."

British firms, he said, might be incapable at present of supplying the quantities of machines required, but the motor manufacturers were compelled to overcome many difficulties in order to build fast and powerful fighting planes.

Great Britain ought to ensure she did not again fall into such a "foolish position" as the present one in which she had to seek aid from a foreign country in such a matter, he said.

Lord Austin did not make any reference to his view on obtaining planes from Dominion sources.

The Air Ministry announced June 9 it had ordered 200 Lockheed 14-passenger airliners for reconnaissance purposes and 200 North American machines for advanced training, from the Lockheed and North American companies, respectively.

It was reported in London last night the 200 U.S. training planes would be used to prepare Royal Air Force aviators to operate the new home fleet of Miles-Kestrel fighting machines developing a top speed of 300 miles an hour. The training planes will fly about 200 miles an hour.

DEATH INVESTIGATED
PORT ELGIN, Ont. (CP)—Investigation was being made today into the death of M. Grace Hamby, 28-year-old stenographer whose body was found in shallow water in Lake Huron Sunday, less than 24 hours after she had come from London to take a position here. An inquest was ordered. Authorities said there was a possibility Miss Hamby had fallen into the water from rocks made slippery by spray from an all-night storm. The body was fully dressed.

Mr. Webb to Mr. Bennett

MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS at Ottawa have been using up a good deal of time discussing that hoary subject of party patronage and political corruption. Conservative Opposition Leader Bennett led off a few weeks ago with a crop of charges against certain members of the government. Prime Minister King agreed with him in his main complaint—that public moneys under no consideration should be used to further this or that party's fortunes among the voters of the country.

Not a little time of every session of Parliament is consumed by discussions of this sort. It is right and proper that political skulduggery of any kind should be aired in the presence of the elected representatives of the people. It is right and proper, too, that if facts are available to prove such charges as may be made, they should be sifted and the guilty persons duly pilloried in the usual political fashion—and more drastically when circumstances warrant.

What must be sickening to the people of the country as a whole, however, is the holier-than-thou impression which some politicians try to make on the public mind. Mr. Bennett, for example, quite early in the session charged the government—or certain ministers of the administration—with using relief expenditures for political purposes. These allegations were stoutly refuted, but they obviously riled the Prime Minister and some of his colleagues to such an extent that toward the end of last week Mr. King figuratively put Mr. Bennett "on the spot." He referred to a letter written to his predecessor in office by Mr. Ralph Webb, former Mayor of Winnipeg, in his capacity as Conservative organizer for Manitoba, in August, 1935. (This was two months before the general election of that year when the Bennett administration suffered the most overwhelming defeat ever encountered by any government since Confederation.) It fairly reeked with all that the Conservative Prime Minister appears now to hold in such horror.

Of that letter, published over the weekend in the newspapers of Canada from the Pacific to the Atlantic, Prime Minister King said: "In all the history of the Canadian Parliament never has there been so disgraceful exposure of corruption and bribery." Indeed, the leader of the government considered the communication so serious, implicating as it did other members of the Bennett regime, that it might be wise to have an inquiry by the public accounts committee. No matter what action is taken, however, it will not be surprising if the Conservative leader in the House now is wishing he had said nothing about political corruption at all.

Honors List Attacked

THIS YEAR'S BIRTHDAY HONORS LIST seems to have fallen rather flat in some sections of Britain and has been made the rare occasion for criticism and attack.

Says the Evening News: "Science makes only one Order of Merit, most coveted of all honors (Sir Arthur Eddington), and business has to rub along with one knighthood (Vivian H. Smith), a banker... What would be the conclusions of some post-cataclysmic historian if he were presented with a modern honors list and told that this is all the surviving evidence of British civilization in 1938?"

The Daily Mirror, describing the list as "extremely boring," adds: "England seems to have forgotten her finest sons and daughters... Many of the folk who have put all they know into building this great country of ours are not there."

One of the prerogatives left to the British monarch under the constitutional formula to which he rigidly conforms is that of withdrawing his consent to royal preface if he so desires. It is generally understood that King George used the "blue pencil" quite frequently. The names for the honors list, of course, are submitted by the Prime Minister to the King.

This is one matter in which Canada does not have to concern herself. For nearly 20 years now the wish of the Canadian Parliament has been respected. Perhaps it is not too much to say that the titles system is not as popular in Britain as it once was. Political partisanship is not completely divorced from its operation.

Viceregal Housing

THE GOVERNMENT OF EIRE, NOW IN the throes of the former Irish Free State's second general election in less than 12 months, seems to be having trouble with the operation of that part of Southern Ireland's new constitution which does away with the Governor-General's job. This relates to the property formerly occupied by that dignitary under the old order.

According to the Irish Independent, the government is indulging in a species of hide-and-seek in the matter of finding a suitable domicile for the head of the state—Prime Minister Eamon de Valera. We quote from the well-known Dublin daily: "First they closed down the Viceregal Lodge and secured another house for the late Governor-General, where he might be hidden from the public eye. Then they played with a scheme for converting the Viceregal Lodge into a museum. The next step was to dispose of their interest in the alternative accommodation for the Governor-General. Now the President is to be reinstated in the Viceregal Lodge; but only temporarily. It was announced in the Dail yesterday that a new residence is to be built for the President."

The foregoing appeared on the day the De Valera government was defeated in the Dail, May 25, and the newspaper added to its comment we have quoted that the "taxpayer will foot the bill for all these experiments in housing," and "an explanation is due to the public for this latest proposal." All we can suggest is that this little matter will help to vary the election fare now that "hot republicanism" and the economic war with England are more or less removed from the controversial realm of Eire politics.

Current War Lessons

THE THEORY OF THE "QUICK WAR" IS supposed to have been cherished by the Nazis until they saw their theories put into practice in Spain and the Far East. At several stages it was thought the Spanish loyalists were to be speedily crushed by the insurgents, with the aid of vast quantities of planes, tanks and men supplied by Hitler and Mussolini. But the anticipated collapse of the loyalists did not come and even now it appears possible the war may last a year or more longer.

Similarly, Japan expected to overwhelm China with the speed of her mechanized divisions, the efficiency of her infantry and artillery, and the striking power of her planes. But the undeclared war on China has now been going on for 11 months and it may last years longer.

All of which means that the dictators can no longer plan to pounce suddenly on an adversary, crush that adversary with a concentration of hitting power, and bring the adventure to a close in a few months. Spain and China have demonstrated that such attempts can by no means be counted on to succeed. On the contrary, they mean involvement in long, expensive and bloody conflict.

The strength of the defence, even when confronted with the enormous power of modern shells, the dazzling rapidity of machine-gun fire and the horrible destruction wrought by bombing planes, is still an exceedingly potent, if not decisive, force in modern warfare. The demonstration that truth has received in Spain and the Far East may be a boon to mankind. Neither Germany nor Italy is now able to stand a prolonged war.

Horror a la Mode

LONDON SOCIETY HAS TAKEN UP GAS masks, as the phrase goes, and everybody who really matters is reported to be attending gas-raid salons. We read that the best-known leaders of the haut monde are holding smell-soirees. Vials of liquid that smell like the real gas are passed around and delicately sniffed, masks are worn, and classes in raid-behaviour—exclusive classes—are held. It is all very smart and amusing.

In Praha there is a boom in the gas-mask trade. There are 20 smart shops which sell nothing else. One can scarcely tell them from hat shops. Pretty girls do the selling and demonstrating. There are plenty of mirrors, so purchasers may see how funny they look in them.

Perhaps what the world needs is more of this kind of thing. It might give the cause of peace an appreciable boost. The horrors of war cannot be demonstrated in the flesh, but the horrors of tricking it out in fancy dress can.

THE SASKATCHEWAN VOTE

From Edmonton Bulletin
Incomplete and unofficial returns suggest there was not much difference between the total vote polled in Saskatchewan last Wednesday and the figure of four years ago. The 1934 total was 428,880, and when the count is complete Wednesday's aggregate will probably be pretty close to that mark.

There was, however, a marked difference in the way the votes were distributed. The Liberal vote is slightly smaller than in 1934. The Conservative vote was cut to less than half. The C.C.F. vote dropped 25 per cent. The Social Crediters and Independents got the votes the older parties lost.

Three-quarters of the votes were polled for Liberal, C.C.F., Social Credit and Independent candidates. That is, for candidates advocating one or other type of progressive policy. The Conservative group simply were not in the running. Not one of them got elected, as occurred four years ago. What obviously happened was a landslide of former Conservative voters to the other parties, with minor shifts from one to another of these.

If reactionary interests in eastern Canada were looking to Saskatchewan for encouragement they looked in vain.

Loose Ends

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

MENACES

EMINENT PRELATES of the Catholic Church, both here and in Vancouver, have been sounding grave warnings against Communism in Canada. When prelates talk about secular things and, specifically, about political things, they must and probably do expect their utterances to be discussed and criticized like the utterances of laymen and politicians. And most Canadians will say about the present warnings that they are interesting, sincere, but entirely superfluous.

There is no danger of Communism in Canada or in the United States because people here believe in private property and intend to hang on to it. So remote is the possibility of any such thing, indeed, that the Communist Party of the United States, led by a highly-intelligent man named Earl Browder, has abandoned any hope of revolution, has abandoned Communism altogether for the present at least, is supporting Mr. Roosevelt (a very conservative gentleman) and has become a party of rather mild reform. Mr. Browder knows and says publicly that the United States doesn't want Communism, or even Socialism, but may go in for Fascism.

And that is the real danger in Canada; not Communism but Fascism. Between Communism and Fascism there is little to choose in the minds of most Canadians. They wouldn't willingly vote for either, and the notion that the country may suddenly be stamped into a Russian experiment would make you laugh, but for your respect for churchmen. But Fascism comes quietly, like a thief in the night. You wake up in the morning and find him in possession of the house.

You already have Fascism, or the substantial beginnings of it, in French Quebec, under an incredible Padlock Law, the like of which would not be tolerated in any other British country; a Padlock Law which, for the present, makes it impossible for any Liberal partizan in Canada to criticize the Toryism of the British government, since a Liberal government in Ottawa has failed so far to reject the law, and even refused to allow discussion of it in Parliament.

When such a situation exists—a Fascist law supported by a federal government—it requires a high, rollicking sense of humor to talk about the danger of Communism in Canada. But Fascism could come in Canada, as in the United States, very easily. Students of history in the future may find that in this year of grace it was already on the way.

SPEECH

A LEARNED FELLOW writing in the New Republic voices an impassioned appeal for a standard American language. Having made a deep study, he finds that there are dialects all over America, not as pronounced as those of England, but still distinguishable by any expert. An expert, it seems, can tell whether you come from Boston or New York, or even whether you are from Tacoma or Wenatchee, by the inflection of your vowels and the twist of your consonants, and how these peculiarities have followed the movements of people across the continent is a fascinating study.

The idea of a standard American or Canadian speech, however, is very disagreeable. It is part of the standardization of all aspects of life so that distinction of speech are the only distinctions left at all. You drive the same car whether you live in Victoria or Omaha, you see the same movies, wear the same clothes, read the same comics and think exactly the same thoughts. All you have left to show, for example, that you are a Victorian and not a Californian is your way of talking. Your mind is the same now, reduced to the same flat pulp by the same grinding forces. You should cling to your speech as your last piece of really private property.

It will be a sad day, indeed, when life is so leveled that one cannot tell a man from Duncan the moment he opens his lips. It will be a regimented world when a man from Rockland Avenue talks like a man from Hillside. Why, one of the most interesting things about the civilization of this city is the infinite varieties of dialect which flourish here in so small a space—Canadian, English, sub-English, super-English, American, Cockney, Oak Bay, James Bay, Saanich and a new synthetic speech, entirely unique to this terrain, which is modeled on Oxford and used mostly by young flappers of society who have lived all their lives west of the Rocky Mountains. That is one of the reasons why Victoria is so interesting, and we should try to preserve it so.

PRAGA OR PRAGUE?

From Montgomery Advertiser

For some unknown reason the editors of the Associated Press have adopted the spelling "Praga" for the capital of Czechoslovakia. That is certainly the way the natives spell it, but it is not consistent with other A.P. practices to spell it that way. It should be spelled "Prague," which is the English spelling for the picturesque Bohemian city.

If the A.P. followed the same practice with other cities it would have

Roma for Rome, Bruxelles for Brussels, Kobenhavn for Copenhagen, Munchen for Munich, Geneve for Geneva, Napoli for Naples, Bucuresti for Bucharest, Lisboa for Lisbon, Antvers for Antwerp, Koln for Cologne, Warszawa for Warsaw, Wien for Vienna, Moskva for Moscow, Beograd for Belgrade, Helsinki for Helsinki, Venezia for Venice, and Athana for Athens.

Unfortunately we do not have in our line type machines the necessary characters, or we would also tell you what the proper spelling is for Shanghai, Canton and Osaka.

Bedford School Old Boy

By PETER STURSBURG

LONDON.

I STOOD IN FRONT of the wicket to the bursar's office of Bedford School. Old Bull, the clerk, glanced up from his work.

"Why, Mr. Stursburg?" he said. I was tremendously gratified that he should remember me immediately like this after eight years.

Driving through the old town I had noticed a lot of changes. The hotel where proud parents entertained their sons of a Sunday afternoon on feasts of poached eggs had had its face lifted. Across the River Ouse, where the "eights" raced, the narrow High Street was crowded, for it was Saturday and market day.

Past a new department store pushing aside a huddle of little shops, past Bunyan's statue, which some of the boys painted on my last term, much to the indignation of the townfolk, who never did like the young "toffs," past all these familiar landmarks, changed or unchanged, we drove, and I wondered if anyone would remember me.

So it was with a silence which meant more than words that I shook hands with Old Bull.

"Is it Stursburg 1 or Stursburg 2?" he asked apologetically. I assured him I was the first of the Stursburgs.

THROUGH THE COVERED way behind the platform of the Great Hall, he led me to the headmaster's spacious study. Grose-Hodge, who had seemed so young, almost too young, when he succeeded the venerable old "chief," was going grey. He had brought to the school the vigor of a young man and had instituted an unheard-of amount of building. New science laboratories, new gymnasium, new swimming pool—he had even put modern plumbing into the lavatories, which had been evil-smelling places known to us schoolboys as "the bogs."

He had gone on a tour of Canada and had come back tremendously enthusiastic about the country and preached a sermon in the school chapel, when he had likened a hydro-electric power station to a cathedral. That was in 1929.

Despite the fact one of the boys he had sent to college in Canada had to come back to England to find work, he still believed in the Dominion.

He had pleasant memories of Vancouver. Prof. Spencer of U.B.C. entertained him, and he had been interested and surprised in how the professor and his wife had got along without servants, had been able to plan their life so they enjoyed it to the fullest. Evidently you can't do the same in England.

"Would it be best for a young fellow to go to U.B.C. if he intended settling in British Columbia?"

"If so, are there any arrangements made to look after British public school boys? I mean, you know how a young fellow would feel in such strange surroundings, so far away from home. Is there anyone to show him around, to tell him what to do, to more or less look after him?"

I STOOD IN THE BALCONY of the Great Hall during noon prayers as I had seen so many Old Bedfordians stand there before when I was a schoolboy. Just behind me was the door to 32 where Corko used to teach. Corko had got his name because of a limp. One bright youth had stuck a pin into his leg to see if it was made of cork. It was not. Poor Corko had died some years ago.

In the hush before prayers, the click of a bat hitting a ball could be heard. "Ovah," a voice in the distance called. A cricket match was going on in the playing fields outside. Maybe the Battle of Waterloo was not won on the playing fields of Bedford, but Eton had met its Waterloo many times there before.

The house-master entertained me at lunch. He was now the deputy headmaster and had given up the boarding-house. Across the table from me sat his daughter, a shy little girl eight-years ago, now a sophisticated lady with all the embellishments of a Paris finishing school.

Though persons and buildings may change, the great mass of boys which make up a school does not change. The playing fields were covered with boys that Saturday afternoon, just as they were in my day, just as they were 100 years ago, just as they will be 100 years from now, but maybe not only by the sons of the privileged few.

Religion is all right so long as you keep money out of it. Roger Babson, statistician and national moderator of the Congregational church.

Both my husband and I lived most of our lives in Victoria before coming here to Bralorne, and we have seen skylarks countless times out in Saanich.

GYROS LEARN OF BIG GAME

T. Norman Tells Club Thrilling and Amusing Stories of Africa

Vivid word-pictures of the habits of the big game animals of Africa, spoken in a quiet matter-of-fact voice, were given to the Gyro Club at its luncheon in the Empress Hotel yesterday by T. Norman, former commissioner of police in South Africa.

Mr. Norman claimed to be no big game hunter, only an amateur, but most of his stories were based on personal experience.

Some of his tales were hair-raising and some highly amusing. The funniest of all concerned a hippopotamus which became separated from its herd and walked through the streets of Durban—a city considerably larger than Victoria. It collided with a street car and knocked over a number of lamp-posts before wandering out of town again.

Mr. Norman gave the club an idea of the habits of the various types of game.

The elephant, he said, was notable for the silence with which it moved. A herd of 50 to 100 could go through thick bush without making a sound. The only noise that gave them away was the rumbling of their stomachs which sounded like loud thunder. They were dangerous only in the mating season, or in the case of rogue elephants which were cast out by their herds for their bad temper, usually caused by toothache.

The rhinoceros was short-sighted, truculent, and exceptionally keen-scented. When it charged it came with the speed of an express train. Because its horn covered its head the only place to shoot it was in the knee.

LION STAGIST
The lion was a gentleman, he said, and would never attack unless it thought the hunter was attacking it. It was also a strategist.

The leopard was the most dangerous of all game animals. The buffalo was also dangerous. Following wounded buffalo into brush had brought death to as many hunters as any other single cause.

He considered it hardly fair shooting the giraffe, which was a friendly defenceless animal notable by the fact that it had no voice. Its chief trouble was with telegraph lines, which it tore down on the run.

The hippopotamus, unless offended by a hunter in a boat, was harmless. It could neatly bite a boat in half.

Mr. Norman told of the great variety of buck found in South Africa, ranging from waterbuck as large as oxen, down to perfectly-formed creatures standing only nine inches high.

Big game hunting, he said, was a rich man's sport. For the services of professional hunters, native porters, food, gun-bearers and all the other essentials, it cost anywhere from $3,750 to $5,000 for six weeks.

Mr. Norman was introduced by Percy Moir and thanked by Everett Taylor, president of the club.

Rose Garden To Be Opened Soon

The new rose garden at the east end of Windsor Park, Oak Bay, at the corner of Currie Road and Newport Avenue, will be formally opened by Reeve R. Taylor on June 22.

Bushes of a large number of varieties of roses were presented to the municipality by Mrs. H. R. Beavan, who originated the idea of the garden.

SEES ELECTION IN 12 MONTHS

No Federal Test Until June Or July of 1939, Alan Chambers Says

There will be no federal general election until June or July of next year, in the opinion of Alan Chambers, who returned to Victoria over the week-end from eastern Canada.

In Toronto he attended a meeting of the National Youth Congress of Canada and in Ottawa was present at the meetings of the National Advisory Council of the Dominion Liberal Party, representing the ridings of Victoria and Nanaimo.

He was pleased to note the vote for youth training in Canada had been increased this year and that $350,000 would be available in British Columbia. It was Mr. Chamber's committee that first secured the interest of the Dominion Government in this matter last year.

B.C. delegates to the Liberal meeting urged the government, through Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Finance, to make the Dominion Housing Act workable in the smaller cities of the province. At present it applies only to Victoria and Vancouver. The government promised co-operation.

While in Ottawa the government introduced its motion to the House to make possible government loans to municipalities at 2 per cent. Mr. Chambers said he hoped the municipalities of the province would take advantage of this offer to borrow money to complete many necessary public works, which had to be abandoned because of lack of credit.

Seeking Fish For Shawnigan

SHAWNIGAN LAKE—The Malahat Board of Trade, at its meeting last week, received a letter from the Victoria Chamber of Commerce promising co-operation in action that may be taken by the local board in approaching the public works department for improvements to the old Victoria Road. Messrs. A. Sutton, W. White and J. Wilkinson were proposed as new members.

To keep the lake well stocked with fish, application is being made to the fisheries department for 50,000 fish fry to be distributed in various parts of the lake.

Little Seized Liquor Resold

Liquor Board Accepts Only the Best From Bootleg Caches

The B.C. Liquor Control Board resells to the public only the very best of liquor seized in bootleg raids, and never sells any on which there is the slightest doubt as to its goodness, according to W. F. Kennedy, chairman.

Commenting on the suggestion at a Vancouver police commission meeting that the board makes a nice profit out of selling seized liquor, Mr. Kennedy said that as far as the board is concerned there is no extra profit in handling seized rum because it pays the full wholesale value for it to the treasury.

Only unopened bottles of guaranteed brands with the government seals undamaged are considered by the board for resale.

All but a very small amount of the liquor seized is destroyed. Over a year the stuff resold is worth about $200, Mr. Kennedy said. Actually, over the last seven years the board has turned over $120 to the government on this account. This amount is the difference between the value of seized liquor purchased by the board and the cost of freighting it to warehouses.

MANY ARRIVE ON HOLIDAYS

Travelers from many parts of the world arrived in Victoria over the week-end and for most of them it was their first visit to Vancouver Island.

"I've never been here before, but I'm certainly coming again," said M. Foreman Sachs of New York City, who motored across the continent with R. Stanley Jacobs, also of New York.

There were a number of New York City residents on the register at the Empress Hotel yesterday. Others were: Mr. and Mrs. C. E. French and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Greely.

From more distant places were Walter Stüder of Switzerland, and A. R. Calderon of Ecuador, South America. Mrs. John F. Dore, widow of the Mayor of Seattle, spent the week-end at the Empress with her daughters, Mary Margaret and Virginia. John Cornode, vice-president of the American Mail Line at Seattle and Mrs. Cornode, were also there Saturday and Sunday.

From Charlottetown, on Prince Edward Island, came the Misses A. and L. Horne and Mrs. I. J. Yeo.

Others registered were J. Melvin Bryan, M.P.P. for Mackenzie, Mrs. A. C. Hansen, Seattle; Mr. and Mrs. G. V. Tornroos of Vancouver and Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Tornroos of Port Arthur; Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Higgins of Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. G. Begg of Nelson; Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hutten of New Westminster; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Farrell, Vancouver; and A. H. Rankin of Vancouver.

The Malahat branch Canadian Legion has decided to hold a special meeting on June 21 for the purpose of revising the by-laws and to appoint a delegate to attend the legion convention.

Comrade J. A. Beattie, president of the Sooke branch, gave the members a talk on conscription of man power, wealth and Canada's resources in the event of the Dominion going into war.

The W.A. to the Legion named Mrs. J. Bell as delegate to the convention of the Legion's women's command at Vancouver in August.

Mrs. W. EdDels and members of the Shawnigan Junior Dramatic Club paid a surprise visit to the home of Bill Watson Tuesday evening to bid him farewell on the eve of his departure for Camp Borden, as a member of the Royal Canadian Air Force. On behalf of those present, Mrs. EdDels presented him with a pen and pencil set.

Chemainus

At the monthly meeting of the Ladies' Mission Circle of Calvary Baptist Church, thanks were extended to Mrs. Wynne for three pitchers and sugar bowls for the use of the church. A letter of thanks and appreciation was read from Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Ward of the Baptist Jackson Avenue Mission, Vancouver, for a bale of clothing. An outline of personal and mission work in India was given by Mrs. F. W. Dafeo, Mrs. Wyllie and Mrs. Cook.

At a meeting of St. Michael's and All Angels' Church Thursday arrangements were made to attend a combined meeting of Westholme and Chemainus Women's Auxiliaries at the home of Miss Foster, Crofton, July 8.

Monkman Pass Road Pushed

Volunteer Labor Cutting Highway, Says Prince Visitor

Volunteer labor, consisting of ranchers and other residents of the area, are showing great enthusiasm in the building of the Monkman Pass Highway, which is designed to link the Peace River block with the rest of British Columbia, according to J. O. Wilson, secretary of the Prince George Board of Trade, who is visiting Victoria today.

Mr. Wilson said there are about a dozen men working from the B.C. end of the road, beyond Hansard, and another crew from Grand Prairie, Alberta end.

They expect to have a rough trail cut through by the end of the year so that a car may be taken over the route to prove its feasibility. The trail is now blazed but about 90 miles must be opened to make it in any way possible.

Chief difficulty faced by the volunteer road builders, said Mr. Wilson, is the construction of bridges. They have two rivers to cross as well as smaller gulleys and are asking the provincial government for the advice of one of its engineers on the construction of the bridges.

SCHOOL BOARD WITHIN BUDGET

With five months of the school year gone the City School Board is well within its current year's estimates, according to a report tabled by the trustees last night.

Of an estimated net expenditure of $405,071.51 for the year, the board had a net expenditure at May 30 of $192,780.49.

Gross expenditure for the year is estimated at $501,412.91, and estimated revenue is $96,341.40. Total expenditures to May 30 were $229,447.12, while revenue for the same period was $37,929.63.

School Dances Are Restricted

Public dances in city school auditoriums are permitted only when the funds from such functions are for educational purposes, the City School Board announced last night.

The statement followed receipt of a letter from the Knights and Dames of the Thistle, who protested permitting the use of auditoriums for dances on the grounds it was unfair to licensed halls.

The board informed the organization that only parent-teacher associations were allowed the use of school halls for dances, and in these cases the proceeds went towards school expenses.

George H. Deane, municipal inspector, pointed out that P.T.A.'s were a form of school auxiliaries.

The Young Citizens' League today asked the City Council to smooth the ground at Spencer's playing field and at the Heywood Avenue athletic grounds.

Oak Bay Zoning To Be Tightened

Noting a tendency on the part of ratepayers to expect "whitewashing" of infractions of the municipal zoning by-law, the Oak Bay zoning appeal board yesterday announced that in future it will only consider appeals for which there are definite grounds.

Ratepayers appealing to the board must be able to show they would suffer unnecessary hardship by adhering to the regulations.

It was stated that the majority of a flood of appeals received recently have been from people who wanted to break the zoning rules for their own convenience but not from necessity.

FRUIT GRADES ESTABLISHED

New Provincial Regulations in Line With Federal Rules

Legal steps to protect the federal system of inspecting and grading fruit, honey and vegetables in British Columbia were taken by the provincial government today with the passage of new provincial regulations covering the scheme.

The regulations, covering 46 typewritten pages, are identical with federal rules, according to Hon. K. C. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture. They are under authority of an act passed last session. Federal inspectors will continue to do the work.

Dr. MacDonald said the new regulations did not imply any change in the grading system. They were simply put through because recent court decisions have questioned the right of a provincial government to implement federal legislation. By passing legislation of its own, however, the province has conferred supplementary powers upon the inspectors to protect the grading from court action.

School Board Briefs

The board received and filed a letter from the City Council stating the comptroller had been instructed to furnish information requested by the trustees dealing with amounts of principal and interest outstanding on school debentures.

Employees of the board desirous of attending local military camps during the summer were given permission to do so by resolution of the board.

The trustees received with thanks a $50 grant from the Burridge P.T.A. to augment the school's library grant.

A decrease of 31 in the monthly attendance at city schools was reported to the board. In April the attendance was 4,913, and it fell to 4,882 in May. In May last year the attendance was 4,967.

The strawberry is considered one of the younger fruits added to cultivated foods.

Aladdin Temple Appreciates Victoria's Hospitality, Says Potentate

Hundreds of Shriners returning home after the Los Angeles convention are daily passing through Victoria.

One hundred members of Aladdin Temple from Columbus, Ohio, and members of their families, reached the city by the 1.15 Canadian Pacific boat from Seattle, and left at 4.30 on the return trip yesterday.

"Aladdin Temple never visits the west coast without paying a visit to its friends and neighbors in Victoria and British Columbia," Walter C. Kropp, potentate of the temple, said. "We have always been extended the greatest hospitality here and like to come back for more of it whenever we can," he said. Other officials of Aladdin Temple in the party are Morgan L. Evans, chief rabban; Harry R. Allen, recorder and patrol captain; Edward R. Neal, treasurer, and Dr. Earl G. Jones, Oriental guide.

On Sunday 175 members of the Murad Temple of Indianapolis and 25 from Ramesses Temple of Toronto, passed through the city. Today 150 from Hadi Temple, Evansville, Ind., were greeted here. All Shrine visitors were met at the docks by members of the Glize Temple.

She leaves the widower, Dr. A. Primrose-Weils, three daughters, Mrs. A. B. U. Robson, Vancouver; Mrs. L. F. Solly, Westholme, V.I.; and Miss Ursula Primrose-Weils, at home; also two sons in England.

What will her buying preferences be? Can she be persuaded to favor our merchandise?

Believes Eire Will Rejoin Empire

Rev. Dr. Wilson Sees Hope In Recent Events In Ireland

That Eire will eventually reconcile all her differences with England and come back as one of the brightest units in the British Empire was the belief expressed by Rev. W. G. Wilson, D.D., in an interesting address on Ireland before the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club last night at its supper meeting at the Y.W.C.A. Mrs. Arthur Longley, the president, was in the chair.

Dr. Wilson recalled many interesting impressions gained on his visit to Ireland last summer and traced its chequered history as a background to his observations on conditions, noting that recent events pointed to a more hopeful outlook. He described the Irish as a misunderstood people, a people of ancient culture, embittered by past oppression, and attributed much of the Irish strife since 1920 to the Irish Republican Army, a group of irresponsibles whom he likened somewhat to the Ku Klux Klan.

Speaking of Ireland's culture, he recalled the famous Book of Kells, "in one capital letter of which could be found more art than in the whole of many art galleries." Reference was made to the big contribution made to literature by the Irish, and to the world-renown of the Abbey Players. Miss Bessie Crowther tendered the thanks of the gathering to Dr. Wilson.

Mr. Jack Townsend delighted the gathering with two songs, "Within These Sacred Bowers" and "Give Me the Open Road." Miss Crowther playing the piano accompaniment.

Members were reminded of the annual meeting to be held in the clubrooms on Monday, June 27, and were urged to send in their nominations not later than June 20 to Miss Elsie Richardson.

Y.W.C.A. Board At Farewell For Miss Evelyn Gedge

Miss Evelyn Gedge, who left last night for England after visiting here en route from Roumania and Bombay, was the guest of honor at a reception given at the Y.W.C.A. Miss Helen Kirkwood, the secretary, was the hostess, and members of the "Y" board and committee members listened with interest to Miss Gedge's brief talk on her work in these foreign fields.

Mrs. Roy Angus presided at the daintily-decorated supper table, and members of the household training class assisted in serving. At the recent meeting of the Y.W.C.A. board Mrs. E. W. Hetherington was welcomed back from her trip to Winnipeg and congratulated on her success in the Beaux-Arts entry in the Dominion Drama Festival.

In her report of the month's activities in the "Y," Miss Kirkwood mentioned the progress of the four classes which are under the joint auspices of the Y.W.C.A. and the Dominion provincial Youth Training Committee. The salesmanship class, under the direction of Mrs. Leonard, held its closing party at the "Y" on May 25. The girls of the household training class had made their first public appearance when they served at the Y.W.C.A. membership tea on May 25, since when they have been quite in demand. This course continues until September.

The dressmaking class, which also continues until September, and can still take new students, held a very successful fashion show at the Kingston Street School on May 27, under the direction of Miss Edith Callister and Mr. Victor Mott. The girls of the shorthand-typing practice class are now ready to take positions, and various firms in the city have been circularized regarding their qualifications.

OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES

Although regular indoor club meetings ended for the season with the club girls' spring banquet on May 12, outdoor hikes, picnics, marshmallow roasts and beach parties are now in full swing. Any girl interested either in good times out of doors with other girls on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, or in the Y.W.C.A. camp at Gairloch Island, should get in touch with the Y.W.C.A. for further particulars.

The Travelers' Aid report showed an increased number of young and old travelers given assistance in many ways. Announcement was made of the annual annex tea, which will be held on Tuesday afternoon, June 21, if the weather is favorable, in the garden; otherwise in the annex. All friends of the annex and the "Y" are cordially invited.

The general secretary, Miss Kirkwood, will attend the two social work conferences in Vancouver and Seattle at the end of this month. Preliminary announcement was made of the "western regional" Y.W.C.A. conference to be held in Spokane in October.

Women Will Press For City Comfort Stations

Local Council Discusses Need of Public Conveniences; Reports of National Council Resolutions and Deliberations Given

The Local Council of Women will continue to press for the establishment of properly supervised public comfort stations in the city, it was unanimously decided at yesterday's meeting held in the Y.W.C.A.

This decision followed the report given by Mrs. Hugh Mackenzie of her interview with the city authorities on the subject, in which she was advised that the city had no money for such a purpose. Further action on the matter was deferred, pending a meeting with Mrs. Mackenzie's committee and Dr. Olga Jardine, the president, who was unable to attend yesterday's meeting, and in whose absence Mrs. J. W. Gibson presided.

Reports of the delegates to the annual meeting of the National Council of Women occupied much of the afternoon. Mrs. J. L. White reported the highlights of the first day's proceedings, including the reports on economics, taxation and citizenship; Mrs. A. C. Cross gave a resume of resolutions and of the national report on cinema; Mrs. Alfred Carmichael covered the Saturday meeting and the emergency resolutions; and Mrs. J. W. Gibson spoke of the touching memorial tribute, in which reference had been made to the late Mrs. C. C. Spofford.

SALACIOUS MAGAZINES

Correspondence included a letter from the Frances Willard W.C.T.U., expressing its opposition to the entry into Canada of salacious magazines and also to legislation permitting sweepstakes in Canada; a letter from Mrs. Dorothy Kynnersley Davis objecting to certain allegedly funny stories in a local newspaper, and a communication from the Canadian League of Peace and Democracy, which will be considered later.

The sum of $21 has been sent to the Lady Aberdeen fund, Mrs. Fleming, the treasurer, reported, and more donations have since been received, she noted.

Mrs. A. E. Hopkins reported on the cars provided for the entertainment of national delegates on May 24. Dr. Jardine had received a letter of thanks from Mrs. Spencer, national president, expressing the appreciation of the National Council for Victoria's hospitality.

Thanks were expressed to the many members and friends who had provided transportation; to the local council president, Dr. Jardine, and Mrs. Snape, who had entertained the whole party at "Applegarth," Sidney; to Miss Savory, who had arranged beautiful bouquets for the visitors; to Mrs. Bertha Parsons, Mrs. Alan Campbell and others. Mrs. Alan Campbell gave a more detailed report of the day's program.

"PULP" MAGAZINES

Mrs. W. McManus, convener of the films and literature committee, spoke of the flood of cheap and salacious pulp magazines coming into Canada, and noted that 4,000 copies of 500 different magazines reach Victoria every month, of which about 10 per cent are objectionable.

Mrs. J. L. White announced that the Vancouver Island Weavers' Guild would give a free educational exhibit at the Empress Hotel from July 2 to 4.

Food Grades Described To Women

Home Economist Tells Local Council Of Pure Food Laws

The steps taken by the federal government in educating the consuming public on the nutritional value of fruits, vegetables and dairy produce, and in protecting the consumer through the medium of the pure food laws, were described to the Local Council of Women yesterday afternoon.

Miss Edith Elliott, of the home economics division of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, was the speaker. She prefaced her talk with a reminder that fruit and vegetables should play a greater part in the everyday menu because of the valuable vitamins or "vital mines" which they contained. The speaker decried the old fallacy of long cooking in lots of water, explaining that the new short method in a modicum of water retained the food value and flavor.

After touching upon the regulations first imposed by the government in the Meat and Canned Foods Acts of 1907, governing the commercial canning and other preparation of foods, to safeguard the consumer, Miss Elliott urged the women, in the interests of economy, to familiarize themselves with the various grades, for instance, in canned fruits and vegetables, which are now required, by law, to be shown on the can.

The four grades of quality were "fancy," the highest grade; "choice," allowing slight variation in size, color and maturity; "standard," good, but not necessarily of uniform color or size; and "second," she said.

Miss Elliott displayed a number of pamphlets prepared by the Department of Agriculture on these and other subjects of vital interest to the housewife, and reminded the women that they were obtainable on application to the department's Bureau of Information, free of charge.

New Canada Must Live In Books

Indians and Mounties No Longer Typical, Says Mrs. N. McClung

OTTAWA (CP)—Spiritual progress has lagged far behind physical and mechanical advancement and "there never was a time when writers and creative artists were needed as they are today," Mrs. Nellie McClung, Victoria author, yesterday told 100 delegates attending the three-day meeting of the Canadian Authors' Association.

Canadian authors have a great opportunity to found a Christian commonwealth and give a lead to the world in the promotion of goodwill and establishment of peace and plenty for all, she said.

In telling the story of Canada, writers must take care how they interpret the country to the readers. "The days when the story of Indians, red-coated mounted policemen and snow told the romance of the country were past. The new story was hidden in the desolate spaces of Saskatchewan, where people through lack had resorted to 'artistic living'."

"A novel is the presentation of life. People like a peep into other's lives; they like contrast to their own environment and they read also for escape. It is a great comfort to me to pick up Addison's Spectator and know that people way back in the ages suffered hardships and yet survived."

Marius Barbeau of Ottawa, noted Indian authority, said Canada can provide material for literature, but still awaits artists and novel writers to make full use of it. Canadian books failed to include true episodes peculiar to Canadian life. "In order to create one must have experiences, episodes in life are but raw materials from which fiction is woven."

POWELL RIVER (CP)—British Columbia Police today said they believed three Doriston, B.C., girls, missing in a small rowboat since Saturday, had drowned in the Strait of Georgia.

A police motor launch left this paper-mill town last night to search the strait and the waters of Jervis Inlet for Mary Anderson, 19; Beatty, 10, and Ruth, 9, after radio advices had told of their disappearance.

The girls were last seen about 2 p.m. Saturday when they set out from Doriston, Sechart Inlet just south of here, to row two miles through Skookumchuck Pass to Egmont in Jervis Inlet. Police said the girls, daughters of William Anderson, road foreman for the Doriston district, probably drowned in the swift waters of the pass. The pass, they said, was dangerous for small craft when the tide was running.

The round trip from Doriston to Egmont could ordinarily be made in a few hours in a rowboat.

Church Group In New Soviet Purge

MOSCOW (AP)—The anti-religious magazine Bezbozhnik reported today a monarchist church organization, including some 49 members, had been "liquidated" in Kulyshchev province for anti-Soviet electoral activity.

The magazine said the leader of the group was a priest named Tarnopolsky, who first tried to get himself nominated for election to the supreme soviet last autumn, then urged his followers to boycott the election.

Those reported tried included 20 priests, two deacons, seven acolytes and more than 20 other persons.

The group which had been active since 1936, the magazine said, was accused of undercover propaganda intended to create discontent with the Soviet regime.

BAYS CLASH WITH NAVY

Strong Senior B Box Lacrosse Squads Tangle at Beacon Hill Tonight

Manager Bert Buller's powerful James Bay box lacrosse machine will go into action against the strong Navy brigade this evening when they tangle in the Beacon Hill Park box in a senior B section encounter. There should be lots of action for the fans in this duel, which will be handled by Menzies and Ditchburn.

Another game slated for the evening will bring together Oaklands and Bluebirds in an intermediate tussle at Victoria West Park, Brynjolfsson and Popham will referee.

Both games start at 6.15.

Conservatives have been going great guns since the reorganization of the senior B box lacrosse and last evening they scored their third consecutive victory with a 15 to 12 decision over Cox's Bakery at Beacon Hill.

R. Baker, home player, was the sparkplug who guided the Conservatives to their victory. He played a fine all-round game and accounted for seven goals. Three markers were scored by each of the following to complete the winners' total: R. Howe, G. Coleman and J. McSweeney.

The bakers stayed in the fight to the finish and gave the Conservatives something to be nervous about when they rallied dangerously at intervals. The winners, however, always managed to keep on the right side of the score. Ludbrook and Jackson tallied a quartette of goals apiece to take top scoring honors for the losers.

Menzies and Popham refereed. Teams follow:

Conservatives—M. Maggs, G. Corness, A. Troughton, R. Baker, A. Entwistle, G. Coleman, J. McSweeney, A. Coleman, B. Reid, P. Foster, Skelton, R. Singleton, R. Feebles and J. McConnell.

Cox's Bakery—H. Benson, G. Ball, Ab Cooley, Al Cooley, O'Connell, J. Hooper, V. Hooper, T. Harmston, G. Harrosh, Ludbrook, Jackson and Cooberg.

ESQUIMALT WINS

After battling through the first two sessions on even terms—5 to 5—Esquimalt outscored the Syracuse stickhandlers in the final two quarters to win by a 15 to 11 margin in an intermediate game at Victoria West Park.

During the first half of the game the teams matched goal for goal, but in the third session the dockers notched four of the six goals scored and outscored their opponents, 6 to 4, in the final period.

Bischlager, clever Esquimalt sharpshooter, was high scorer for the evening. He bagged nine goals, while Derry notched four. Barr, Thompson and Simpson tallied three goals apiece to top the Syracuse marksmen.

Ed. Brynjolfsson refereed. Teams follow:

Esquimalt—C. Ball, White, Stewart, Bischlager, Derry, Glass, Simmons, Pellow, Chass and Fisher.

Syracuse—Bryant, Sage, Berry, Barr, Adams, Thomas, Watson, Tonkins, Crockett, Simpson, Atherton and Sargison.

A TIME FOR SEVERITY

Brantford Expositor

In the Old Land more extreme sentences have been introduced in connection with auto misdoings. Recently a young man for culpably hitting and killing a bicycle rider was sentenced to three years' penal servitude and a license cancellation of 10 years.

In passing sentence the judge made comment that the time had come to drastically check the appalling frequency of road fatalities and this sort of treatment should obtain wherever gross carelessness is shown.

Victorian Gets Oxford Degree

William C. Gibson, Former U.B.C. Student, Made Doctor of Philosophy

William Carleton Gibson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gibson, 651 Trutch Street, has just been granted the Doctor of Philosophy degree by Oxford University, following three years of research on the degeneration and regeneration of nerve tissue in the sympathetic nervous system.

W. C. GIBSON

Dr. Gibson, who is 24 years of age, was educated in the schools of Victoria and graduated from the University of British Columbia in 1933, after which he studied for two years in McGill University, Montreal. During his second year there he held the position of Research Fellow under Prof. Wilder Penfield, director of the Montreal Neurological Institute, working on the degeneration of synapses in the spinal cord. For part of the year he worked in the laboratory of physiology in Yale University, and in the autumn of 1935 was granted his Master of Science degree from McGill. Proceeding to Oxford he was appointed research demonstrator under Sir Charles Sherrington, O.M., F.R.S., in the Oxford Laboratory of Physiology. In the spring of 1936 he was sent by the trustees of the late Sir William Osler to work under the eminent neurologist, Rio-Hortega, director of the Cancer Institute in University City, Madrid, on brain tumors, and in the famous Institute Cajal. He was in attendance at the Casa de Salud in Santander when the Spanish civil war broke out. During the spring and summer vacations of 1937 he traveled on the Continent, visiting laboratories and clinics in Paris, Bonn, Amsterdam and Utrecht, and later in Copenhagen, Stockholm, the Pavlov Institute in Leningrad and the Medical City in Moscow.

At the present time Dr. Gibson is continuing his research work under the immediate direction of Prof. Rio-Hortega, who has been brought to Oxford by the Nuffield Medical Research Foundation. He plans to spend most of July and August in Victoria.

Wonders of Beaver Life

IF QUESTIONS ABOUT BEAVERS

All sorts of questions come to us as we think of beavers at work as woodcutters. Why do they want to fell the trees? What kinds do they most often cut? What are some of the records made by beavers in cutting thick trunks? What do they do when a tree falls against another tree instead of to the ground?

Beaver at work near new home.

The last of those questions was left over from yesterday, and here is the answer: Sometimes they let the tree keep leaning against another one, and go to work to cut a different tree. They have lost their labor, and that is the end of it. In other cases, a beaver goes up the leaning tree, and starts cutting into another part of the trunk, or else gnaws off the branches. At last the parts fall to the ground.

Beavers cannot climb trees which stand straight up from the ground. They also find it hard, or impossible, to go up a tree which does not lean very much.

Birch trees, alders and poplars are among the trees which beavers most often cut down. They also cut willows, maples and cottonwoods.

Most trees felled by beavers have trunks from four to 10 inches thick. There are, however, some cases in which the trunks have been from 18 to 20 inches thick, and a record cut has been reported by Enos Mills, a widely known naturalist.

"The largest beaver-cut stump I have ever measured," says Mr. Mills, "was on the Jefferson River in Montana, near the mouth of Pipeston Creek. This was three feet and six inches in diameter."

It is not hard to tell when a tree has been cut by beavers. The marks of their teeth are plainly to be seen. The teeth, by the way, keep growing, and that is the only reason they are not destroyed by the hard labor to which they are put.

Beavers have three reasons to cut down trees—to use parts of them for food, to build dams, and to get material for their homes.

Beavers often place their home or "lodge" at the edge of a pond or stream, but sometimes it is a good many feet from the shore.

Sticks, twigs, tree branches and logs are employed in making the framework of the lodge. These are plastered with mud, layer after layer, and with sod.

The animals use their forepaws to put the mud in place. At last the lodge is finished. Each beaver family has two rooms. One room is a storage place for food. The other is a "living room," above the water surface.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—What has a wife a right to expect from her husband? I have been married for 10 years and am in such an unhappy state of mind that I don't know what to do. First, I want to say that my husband is just as good as he can be, kind, generous and sensible, and we never quarrel, but he never shows me any affection; never kisses me; never tells me he loves me; never shows any concern when I am ill; never does any of the little things that mean everything to a woman and make marriage worth while. When I try to talk to him he shies away from the topic and says that he loves me as much as he ever did, but that he is just unable to show his feelings. We get along together amicably, but our marriage, so far as I can see, is dust and ashes. There is no mutual understanding between my husband and myself, nothing to look forward to nor work for. The thing that worries me is that now I have stopped caring. I don't care whether my husband loves me or not. So far as I know, he is perfectly content with the way things are and I would hate the thought of divorce, but what is there for me? Am I wrong in believing that I am missing something worth while? And has it been my fault for not understanding him?

A HEART-HUNGRY WIFE.

Answer: Thousands of letters like this come to this column from wives who are starving for affection and whose marriages are failures because their husbands take them for granted and never show them any affection or tenderness.

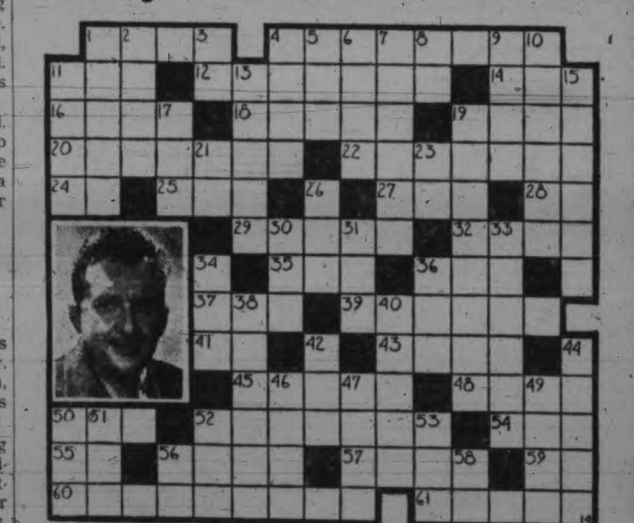

The ironic part of the tragic situation is that these very husbands, who never give any indication that they regard their wives as anything more than useful household conveniences, are deeply devoted to their wives and are working their fingers to the bones to prove it, but they don't tell their wives they love them in so many words, and women put words above deeds.

Why a woman who has a husband who is good, kind and faithful hasn't enough common sense to know that the proof of the pudding is in the eating, and that the best indication a man can give of the state of his affections is by his trying to keep her safe and comfortable and make life easy for her, nobody can guess.

So I can offer no solution to the emotional wife and undemonstrative husband. Both are as nature made them, but I often wonder how they came to marry.

FOREIGN BONDS DEFAULTS RISE
Nearly 40 Per Cent Now in Failure Class

NEW YORK—About 39.7 per cent of the $5,557,600,732 foreign dollar loans outstanding at the end of 1937 was in default, the Foreign Bondholders Protective Council Inc. disclosed in its fourth annual report.

The figures show that the position of holders of foreign bonds was worse at the end of last year than at the end of 1936. The amount of dollar bonds in default six months ago was $2,203,819,360. At the end of 1936, 38.5 per cent, or $2,070,673,769 out of $5,375,000,000 foreign bonds outstanding here was in default.

BY-LAWS AMENDED

The council's annual report, covering negotiations with foreign nations, detailed information on all foreign obligations outstanding here and the council's financial position, is the most comprehensive analysis of the foreign bond situation published. The report contains 790 pages. In addition to the statistical data presented, the review reveals that the council has made important changes in its organization along the lines of the recommendations by the Securities and Exchange Commission in the commission's report to Congress early last year. The report also contains a copy of a letter from SEC Chairman William O. Douglas, approving the amendments in the by-laws. Among the changes in the by-laws is one disqualifying charter directors if subsequent to their original election they have acquired any relationship which would disqualify any other person from becoming a director.

REPATRIATION SCORED

An audited financial statement of the council's operations in 1937 is included for the first time. The statement shows a sharp decline in contributions and advances from contributing members due mostly to the amendment to the council's constitution prohibiting investment banking houses which had issued foreign bonds from becoming "contributing members." Contributions amounted to $1,517 last year compared with $80,182 in 1936 and $82,937 in 1935.

The council again stated its strong opposition to the practice of repatriation by certain foreign nations. These governments are using funds for such purposes which should go to bondholders for interest upon their obligations, the report says.

During the year, the council was occupied with 26 default situations in 20 different countries involving about 254 bond issues with a total face value of $1,800,000,000.

Of the 42 countries with dollar bonds outstanding, 15 are making full service both as to interest and sinking fund payments and 27 are in default.

TIMBER TARIFF IS MAINSTAY

U.K. Took Third of B.C. Timber Cut Last Year

Any change in the tariff preference for B.C. lumber in the United Kingdom market must be "viewed with concern not only by the lumber industry but by business in general," says E. C. Manning, chief forester, in his annual report made public today by Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands. Mr. Manning noted that "the latest cloud on the horizon for the lumber industry is the possibility of the Ottawa Empire trade agreements of 1932 being modified through a proposed trade treaty with the United States. Existing agreements are especially vital in the lumber trade with the United Kingdom," he says, pointing out that in the five years before 1932 B.C. shipped an average of 70,560,000 feet to Britain, but this was increased to an average of 499,453,000 in the five years after the agreements. Last year, he says, the United Kingdom took 32.4 per cent of the total cut of British Columbia timber and 58.5 per cent of the export trade.

"Behind the cold figures of board feet of lumber there is the matter of employment, payrolls and allied business," he says. "The loss of this market or of any substantial part of it would be a serious blow to the province."

Tourist Group Starts Work

Showing Way to Beauty Spots First Objective of Revised Section

The newly-revised tourist trade group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce held its first general meeting today to consider ways and means of keeping the tourist longer in the city, and found that the first need was to show the way to existing beauty spots rather than to provide new ones.

The meeting took the form of a luncheon in Spencer's dining room with Frank Waring, chairman of the group, presiding. The meeting decided one of the group's first actions would be to write to the Victoria City Council and ask that shabby directional signs be repainted and new ones erected pointing the way to such spots as Thetis Lake, Goldstream Park and Mount Tolmie.

The chairman and vice-chairman were instructed to form a committee of at least five members to study and carry out a number of suggestions put forward at the luncheon.

These included the provision of good maps showing beauty spots; the erection of an information booth near the C.P.R. wharf, where members of the Corps of Commissioners could give directions and have the headquarters for a proposed guide service, and the encouragement of military displays of all sorts with special emphasis on the nightly beating of retreat on Parliament Square.

In connection with the proposed commissionaire guide service, William Clark said he and George MacDonald had made inquiries and believed there were no obstacles to its being put into effect. James Macfarlane, C.P.R. general agent, said the corps had arranged for guides for several parties being brought here by his company this year.

ENTHUSIASM NEEDED

Mr. Waring, in a short address at the beginning of the meeting, said hard work, determination and enthusiasm were needed to make Victoria the sort of dignified and friendly tourist centre that it ought to be.

The purpose of the revival of the 15-year-old tourist trade group was to encourage the tourists to stay longer after they had been brought here by the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

The group, he said, had no boundaries and wanted the surrounding municipalities to benefit just as much as the city.

CITIES GETTING MOTOR GRANTS

Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, announced today the annual distribution to municipalities of $570,000 of the government's revenues from motor licenses. The total amounts to roughly a quarter of the income the government derives from this source.

Sums credited to Victoria and other island points are as follows: Victoria $42,793, Oak Bay $6,451, Saanich $4,199, Esquimalt $3,584, Alberni $768, Courtenay $1,334, Cumberland $2,596, Duncan $2,018, Ladysmith $1,580, Nanaimo $7,985, and Port Alberni $2,719. The distribution is on a population basis.

Hollywood Star and His Wife Say They Have Date With Some Big Fish

Richard Dix, famous "he-man" star of the movies, stepped ashore, unannounced and unheralded from Ss. Princess Kathleen early this afternoon on a brief visit to Victoria.

He and his wife took a taxi and went on a short tour of the city before returning to the steamer en route to Vancouver.

"I think we'll come back here on our way home," Mr. Dix said as he walked down the gangway. "We've had a date with some big fish on this island for a long time and I wouldn't be surprised if we kept that date later this summer."

His wife agreed and said she had been anxious to fish on the island for a long time and now that they were in the region she thought they would.

"I have just finished two pictures in Hollywood and the griff was awful," the big star said. "I felt tired out and some of my friends who have been here said I ought to take a trip up into Canada."

"So here we are. We don't know how far we're going, or how long we'll stay. We will decide that after we finish with Banff and Lake Louise."

Dix and his wife, although they took one of the Kathleen's suites, spent most of the crossing from Seattle on deck and were recognized by most of the passengers. Mr. Dix carried a big camera and took pictures of the seagulls, while his wife led them.

Trace of Rain Expected Here

Prospects for a light shower of rain were a little better today. It was said this morning at the Dominion Meteorological Observatory on Gonzales Hill.

Only a trace of rain is expected, however, and tomorrow clearing skies and a return of warmer weather are anticipated.

Weather information is lacking at the present time, because reports from ships on the Pacific are meagre. Without full reports from mid-Pacific, "cradle of all Pacific Coast weather" it is impossible to forecast conditions more than a day or two ahead.

Partly cloudy skies in the last day or two have helped the strawberry crop considerably, although rain is still a pressing need. Many of the plants are already ruined and unless there are showers soon the crop will be cut down.

Against Buying Ridge Timber

Premier Opposes Using Provincial Funds For Hollywood Tract

Premier Pattullo indicated this morning he did not favor the use of provincial funds to purchase the Hollywood Ridge timber tract on the north shore of Vancouver Harbor to preserve it as a park.

Los Angeles interests have announced plans to log the ridge which is well known as Vancouver's "ski ground" and camping place. Mainland organizations are urging the government to preserve the timber as a park.

The Premier said if the government made a policy of repurchasing timber that had been alienated it would run into heavy costs to the treasury. He suggested preservation of the tract was a matter for West Vancouver.

The government, he said, would go as far as it could in helping those who wished to preserve the timber, but he thought West Vancouver should handle it.

In other sources, it was said a proposal would be placed before the government for a joint plan of purchase by the province and West Vancouver, by which the area would be turned over to a local park board to administer.

Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands, said an offer to the owner of the timber to exchange it for other timber in another part of the province had been rejected.

WILL EXPLORE "BAD LANDS"

Hugh A. Matier Outfitting For Trek to Vancouver Island Fastnesses

Hidden fastnesses of Vancouver Island, which Indians fear as "bad lands" and will not enter, will be explored this month by Hugh A. Matier, Irish-born soldier of fortune, who is now outfitting a party in Seattle for the trip, which he expects will last all summer.

Several local people, including a number of members of the Alpine Club of Victoria, have come across these fastnesses, feared by the Indians, but they have not done much exploring there. When they returned to Victoria these local explorers were loath to divulge the locations of such areas.

Matier has had a colorful career in many parts of the world and when he heard about the Indian lands of Vancouver Island, in the neighborhood of the Forbidden Plateau, he decided to explore them.

COLORFUL LIFE

He was born in Ireland of French parents and has been doing unusual things all his life. At one time he was a sailor. Later he became a soldier with the French Deuxieme Chasseurs d'Afrique, fighting against the Rifis in Morocco. For four years he was with the Canadian Army in the Great War. He is a geologist and anthropologist, a collector of rare books, a painter, a petroleum engineer, and an accomplished linguist, and his 15-year-old daughter, who wants to accompany her father—although he hasn't made up his mind about it yet—rides horses and flies airplanes.

Matier has a theory that American Indians came from the same white stock which originally populated Europe and were members of a third "root race" distinct from the Mongol and Negro. His theory, once laughed at, is now gaining a certain amount of support among experts and Matier hopes to find some proof of it during his exploration of remote Vancouver Island regions.

He is a member of the Royal Anthropological Institute of London and plans to write for its magazine on his island discoveries.

He will bring his party to Victoria in a few weeks and will remain in the city a couple of days for final outfitting before heading to the interior of the island.

Large floating islands covered with jungle growth are sometimes called the icebergs of the Amazon.

EXPECT BUS SYSTEM HERE

Bids to Be Called For Transportation Franchise, Mayor Indicates

Subject to any changes R. W. Beck may recommend, the city will proceed on the assumption it will replace street cars by buses when the current franchise with the British Columbia Electric Railway Company Ltd. expires at the end of the year, Mayor Andrew McGavin said today.

"We will have to go out and call for bids for buses," the mayor stated following reception of a letter from A. T. Goward, vice-president of the power company, which said that concern was not anxious to secure a bus franchise and would keep on street cars only as long as the city wished.

The mayor expressed the belief trackless trolleys would be too expensive to operate.

"We are awaiting suggestions from Mr. Beck before taking any action," the mayor added. Mr. Beck, he explained, had been recalled to Chicago on his westward trip and was not expected to be in Victoria before Friday.

B.C.E.R. STAND
Mr. Goward's letter to the mayor reaffirmed the stand taken by the B.C. Electric at a meeting last year between the city and power company.

"The company is not in a position to carry on the street railway system after December 5, unless it is the wish of the council for the company to carry on for a short time, pending the installation of some new transportation system," the letter said.

"The expense to this company of running a bus system would be far higher than to others. There would be very great difficulty in arranging a unified system. The company is not anxious to apply to the council for a bus franchise."

"Should the city be unable to make satisfactory arrangements, rather than see the citizens left without proper means of travel, Mr. Murrin would be only too pleased to again confer with the city authorities with a view to discussing how the problem could be overcome by some mutually satisfactory arrangement."

Up to noon today the city was still without official notification of the intention of plaintiff interests to appeal the decision of the Court of Appeal on the refunding act, Mayor Andrew McGavin stated.

He declined to make public any comment on the issue pending reception of such notification.

City Still Lacks Notice of Appeal

Up to noon today the city was still without official notification of the intention of plaintiff interests to appeal the decision of the Court of Appeal on the refunding act, Mayor Andrew McGavin stated.

He declined to make public any comment on the issue pending reception of such notification.

Wholesale Egg Prices Higher

Large Shipment of Produce to Arrive Today From California

Several Victoria wholesalers have advanced their wholesale prices on fresh egg to 27c for Grade A large, 25c for Grade A medium and 23c for Grade A pullet.

It was reported at wholesale row this morning that the first shipment of watermelons of the season was received yesterday from California.

The first apricot and plum shipments will arrive in the city today from California. In addition to this a large carload of bananas, two carloads of oranges, a carload of Stanby grapefruit, a carload of lemons and a half a carload of celery will also arrive.

There are plenty of strawberries on the market today. Shipments of local gooseberries are being received daily.

Small shipments of asparagus are being received, but the crop is nearly finished.

A large shipment of pineapples from Honolulu is expected to arrive here during the week.

Dr. Charles Maconachie Becomes Veterinary Inspector at Ottawa

Dr. Charles Maconachie, O.B.E., M.C., who was connected with the federal Department of Health at Victoria for a number of years, has left for Ottawa to become associate chief veterinary inspector, Health of Animals Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture.

He will have supervision of the work of meat inspection throughout Canada, which formerly came under Dr. Robert Barnes, who has retired after 30 years' service.

Dr. Maconachie graduated from the Ontario Veterinary College, Guelph, in 1906, following which he engaged in private practice in Manitoba. In 1908 he was appointed to the Health of Animals branch at Winnipeg and four years later was transferred to "Victoria," where he was engaged in work having to do with contagious diseases.

While a resident of Oak Bay, Dr. Maconachie interested himself in school affairs and for a number of years was a member of the board of school trustees.

He served in the South African war and was overseas during the Great War from 1915 to 1919 as captain with the Third Corps Heavy Artillery of the Imperial Army.

League Debates Oriental Influx

Exception to the stand of the House of Commons in rejecting the anti-Oriental Bill of A. W. Neill, M.P. of Comox-Alberni, was taken by the Defence League of Canada at a meeting last night. E. Fairweather was in the chair.

A resolution was passed and it will be forwarded to Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of Defence. The resolution referred to the menace of Oriental penetration in British Columbia, and that the people of the province should decide the action to be taken to eliminate this danger.

Another resolution referred to naval defence on the coast, and the need for suitable training equipment for the large number of young seamen now being trained at Esquimalt. The league suggested that immediate steps be taken to see that Canada built her own ships of war.

Stevens Forces Division On Speaker's Ruling in the Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—Hon. H. H. Stevens, Reconstruction, Kootenay East, forced a division in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon when he pressed for production of a letter relating to grain handling charges at Quebec.

He appealed from a ruling of Speaker Pierre Casgrain that his motion for production of the letter be transferred from the order of "notices of motions for the production of papers" to "notices of motion" on the House order paper.

The House voted to uphold the Speaker's ruling by 96 to 43. Conservatives, C.C.F. members and Social Crediters all voted against the ruling and with Mr. Stevens.

Mr. Stevens said the "ruling would not only prevent discussion of the motion this session, but prevent the House from obtaining the letter.

The motion was "for a copy of a letter written by B. J. Roberts, a member of the National Harbors Board, to Mr. Kaiser of the Louis Dreyfus Company of New York and dated April, 1938, and of a memo attached thereto setting forth an understanding regarding certain reductions of rates for the handling of grain at the port of Quebec."

Mr. Stevens said it was a document which "has entered into the public business of Canada" and he had a right to it.

J. S. Woodsworth, C.C.F. leader, said the document should be produced.

Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, said the letter had been referred to by Hon. C. D. Howe, Transport Minister, and should be laid on the table without a formal motion.

I.S.U. Withdraw From Maritime

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Independent Sailors Union of the Pacific withdrew from the Maritime Federation of the Pacific Coast today to seek an alliance with the teamsters, marine firemen and American Federation of Labor longshoremen.

The sailors acted as the federation convention in San Francisco considered a proposal for waterfront unions to negotiate renewal of contracts this fall with employers jointly instead of individually.

Harry Lundberg, sailors secretary, said votes taken in Seattle, Portland, Aberdeen, San Pedro and San Francisco last night authorized the withdrawal which was predicted last week when sailors' delegates bolted the convention in protest against refusal of the federation to seek representatives of the Tacoma, Wash., longshoremen. West coast stevedores belong to the Committee of Industrial Organization except at Tacoma, where they belong to the A.F.L.
